A Preliminary Report of Jeju Fertility Survey

This project was initiated by the request of National Institute of Population and Social Security Research, Japan. The Jeju Fertility Survey was conducted by Social Survey Research Center at the Academy of Korean Studies. The investigator appreciates Dr. Kojima Hiroshi for his concern and encouragement during this research.

I. General Description on Jeju Fertility Survey

Jeju Fertility Survey (hereafter JFS) was conducted by Social Survey Research Center at the Academy of Korean Studies in eight areas of Jeju Island from May 1, 2003 to June 10, 2003. For this survey, 12 undergraduate and graduate students of Cheju National University interviewed 600 ever-married women between age 15 and 65. Fertility survey is usually conducted for women of age 15 to 49 who can reproduce at the time of survey. But this survey included female divers who were usually over reproductive age from two diver's villages because this survey aimed at interviewing female divers who were assumed to show differences in reproductive behavior from non-divers. The fact that most divers were beyond reproductive age in this survey reflects the rapid aging of female divers in Jeju Island.

Table 1 includes the areas where JFS was conducted.

Table 1. Survey Areas in Jeju Fertility Survey

Area	Characteristics
Gu Jeju city (old Jeju city) area: Ildo-dong, Ihdo-dong, Samdo-dong, Yongdam-dong, Ora-dong, Bonggae-dong	Urban area
Shin Jeju city (new Jeju city) area: Yeon-dong, Nohyung-dong	Urban area
Pyoseon-myon Seongeup-ri	Rural area
Namwon-eup Euigui-ri	Rural area
Hallim-eup Hallim-ri	Rural area
Daejeong-eup Hamo-ri	Rural area
Seongsan-eup Onpyong-ri	Diver's village
Gujwa-eup Gimnyong-ri	Diver's village

As a representative urban area, Jeju city was chosen in this survey. Jeju city is the most center of Jeju Island, which is located in the north of the Island. As Jeju city expanded, new city area was developed in the west of Jeju city, which is called Shin Jeju (new Jeju) in Korea. In this survey, about 300 people were interviewed in both Old and New Jeju city areas as representing an urban area.

Four areas such as Seongeup, Euigui, Hallim and Hamo were included in this survey as representing rural areas in east and west of Jeju Island. 50 ever-married females in each area were interviewed about their marriage, childbirth, practice of contraception and family values and so on.

Onpyong and Gimnyong are representative villages of divers in Jeju Island. Most female residents in these two villages work as divers during their lifetime. Jeju's female divers are very famous not only in Korea but also in Japan because they sometimes go to Japan to dive. Despite that they are assumed to have different behaviors and values on fertility from non-divers, few research has investigated their fertility behaviors and values. Because the number of divers diminishes at a fast pace by death or moves to other areas stopping diving, we need to keep recording their fertility behaviors for further study. In this regard, two diver's villages were included in this research.

Actually, 603 ever-married women were interviewed during the survey. 3 cases were completely disregarded for the incompleteness in many variables. 600 cases were used
