

Hello friends!

Kyorin University, Tokyo is organizing a health related online survey among students studying in language schools in Japan. Its objective is to examine the effectiveness of internet-based educational intervention to improve access to HIV testing services. We would like to request for your kind participation in this survey. Its results will help to improve the access to health care among migrants living in Japan.

To participate in this survey, please open the following website in your smart phone or computer: www.yokosohivtest.com

Then you will be given the specific instructions on how to access the survey questionnaires.

This survey has two stages. In first stage, you have to fill up a questionnaire and watch an informative video. This will take around 10-12 minutes. Then, after 7 days you have to fill up the second stage questionnaire. This will take less than 5 minutes. You will be given the link of second stage questionnaire through SMS in your mobile phone number.

You do not have to write your name in the questionnaire. Please be assured of the confidentiality of information you may provide.

An online amazon gift card worth of 1000 yen will be given as a reward to those who have completed both stages of the survey.

This research is approved by the Research Ethics Committee of Kyorin University, Tokyo.
